June (Sandee) Garihan

Roswell, Georgia

After several years travelling, working and living in Boston, London, Copenhagen, Rome and finally New York where I spent most of my working life in the field of Fashion PR and Non-profit PR with The World Wildlife Fund, The Nature Conservancy, and the New York Zoological Society, I moved to Roswell, Georgia in 1989. This was not a move I relished as I had never wanted to live in the South. However, my sister had lived in Roswell for several years with her family, and convinced my Mom to move down after my Stepfather Robert Gallagher passed away. My Mom convinced me to also move down so that the Family could be together. I was only going to stay for 6 months, but I have been here 30 years, 28 of which have been in the field of Real Estate (see profile attached). My Mom passed away in Dec. 2017 and my sister moved to White Salmon, Washington shortly thereafter, so it has been a tough transition for me as I no longer have family here. I do have a Furkid Family of 9 cats, a beautiful little home on a Lake in a community that is an actual Nature Preserve just off the Chattahoochee River in Roswell. I see Deer, raccoons, lots of birds, ducks and geese, and get my daily fix of natural beauty. My community is a neighborhood and my neighbors are terrific. We boat, and walk miles in a very serene setting.

My side hobbies are collecting and selling antiques, primarily African artifacts which my mother and I started collecting years ago. I have two Booths at an antiques Mall in Roswell called City Antiques and have been there for several years. It is my "fun time", and the dealers there are wonderful friends. This hobby and my furkids are what keep me here.

Roswell is a wonderful historic village town with lots of wonderful restaurants and shops, art galleries and arts festivals - sort of a miniature Greenwich Village - and that is what keeps me here.

By the way, I am not retired, still working, although not quite full-time, and enjoying it.
